Biography:

St. John's Evangelical Church was located at 13th and New Hampshire Streets in Lincoln, Nebraska's North Bottoms. It was organized by a group of German Russians in 1907. It belonged to the Evangelical Synod of North America until becoming independent in 1926. In 1946, it joined the German Congregational Association of Nebraska. When the United Church of Christ formed in the 1960s, St. John's became a member of that organization. In 1967, St. John's merged with Salem United to form Faith United Church of Christ. The combined church occupies the old Salem Church building at 9th and Charleston also in the North Bottoms. The St. John's property was sold.
